EQUALITY AND DIVERSITY WEEK

We've been very busy in our Equality and Diversity Week and it's lovely to see the children in their clothes today, showing what equality means to them. Some children from each year group have written about what they've been doing:

In Year 3, we have learned about disability. We looked at how schooling was now and 100 years ago for disabled people. We also looked at the artwork of Steven Wiltshire. He had Autism and he liked to draw cities and portraits. We think his artwork is very realistic. It teaches us to treat disabled people equally to everyone else.

Ilkai, 3SP

This week we have been looking at equality in racism and disability. We read "Coming to England," by Floella Benjamin, who immigrated along with the Windrush Generation. When they arrived there was a lot of racism because some children in England hadn't seen black people before. In the video loop we learnt about a girl with non-verbal autism and how a boy learnt how to be a friend to her and how to help her. It is important to have celebration weeks like this so we can better support people of different cultures, abilities and orientations.

Liam and Lily-Devon, 4RW

This week, we have learned about equality and diversity, learning about famous members of the LGBT+ community, such as Lil Nas X and Andy Warhol. We also learned about Amelia Earheart, the first woman to fly solo across The Atlantic, and the Empire Windrush.

Sonia and Alicia, 5CL

During Equality and Diversity Week, we have learned about famous scientists that were part of the LGBT+ community, including Alan Turing, a gay man who cracked the Germans' code, helping us to win World War 2. We have also been learning about Freda Kahlo. She stood up for her sexuality and expressed herself.

Hannah, 6LA

TRIATHLON

Jamie (4AP) tells us about a special event this week: On Tuesday, we went to Handsworth Park to do a Triathlon. It was really fun. A triathlon means three different sports. In the race I swam and ran and cycled and ran again. We stopped at 1 o'clock and everyone who went had a picnic. I was sad to leave because it was so much fun. My favourite part was running the actual triathlon race.
